

Rickson Galvez

Associate Attorney
rgalvez@lagerlof.com

Rickson is an Associate Attorney at Lagerlof specializing in Corporate & Tax.

Rickson joins Lagerlof with experience working with an established real estate litigation firm. While there, he represented property management companies and owners across California in landlord/tenant matters.

He received his B.A. from the University of California, Irvine, and earned his Juris Doctor from Syracuse University College of Law, where he also received a certification in technology commercialization.

During law school, Rickson conducted national security research focused on Artificial Intelligence for James E. Baker, former Chief Judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces. Concurrently, he clerked at Bond, Schoeneck & King, PLLC, rotating within the firm's various departments. Rickson later joined the in-house M&A legal team at Cypress Creek Renewables LLC, one of the nation's leading utility-scale solar companies.

Outside of the office, Rickson enjoys yoga, art, film, and real estate investment.
